

ADT launches Alarm Monitoring and Response Guard Service in China

Shanghai, October 26, 2006 – Mark Barry, President of Tyco Fire & Security Asia, announced in Shanghai today the launch of its ADT Alarm Monitoring and Response Guard Service and 1st ADT Central Monitoring Centre in China, located in Shanghai.

ADT, part of Tyco Fire & Security, is the world's leading provider of electronic security solutions and alarm monitoring services, with over 7 million customers and revenue of US $6.5 billion in 2005.

An ADT alarm system connected to an ADT Customer Monitoring Center provides immediate electronic detection of attempted burglaries, forced or unauthorized entries and duress or panic alerts to which ADT's trained officers respond with the dispatch of the relevant emergency services or ADT's patrol response guard service. ADT's proven technology and expertise help deter and provide early detection of criminal activities and other emergency situations, helping to reduce their incidence and impact. ADT's 'Always There' promise helps protect countless homes and businesses throughout the world, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

"We are very proud to open our first ADT alarm monitoring centre in China and are committed to bringing reliable additional security, through ADT's alarm monitoring services, to Chinese businesses and homes. Although relatively new in China, alarm monitoring is commonly used throughout the world as an effective and reliable way to help minimize security risks in businesses and homes by deterring and providing early detection and response to criminal or emergency situations," said Mark Barry, President of Tyco Fire & Security Asia. "When choosing a vendor it is important to look for reliability and proven experience. ADT has been around for over 130 years and protects 90% of the world's Fortune 500 companies. Our state-of-the-art monitoring facilities and monitoring centre professionals and response guards respond to 47 million alarms in over 50 countries in the world each year."

Yeong Wai Hon, General Manager of ADT in China commented: "ADT is able to leverage on its global expertise and has brought in some of its best talent to select, hire and provide training to outstanding local candidates for the introduction of ADT's alarm monitoring and patrol response service in China. After a rigorous selection and background check procedure, ADT's monitoring centre, call centre and response guards undergo thorough training and regular testing on standard operating procedures, ADT's service philosophy, products and services. ADT's patrol response guards need to meet exacting standards for physical fitness, driving ability and customer service."

In addition to alarm monitoring and response guard services, ADT will offer a range of additional value-added services to commercial customers in Shanghai to provide for changing customer needs. These include video verification of alarm events, automated virtual guard tours to meet customers' needs, access verification and supervisory monitoring and key-holding services.

With the launch of ADT's alarm monitoring service in China, ADT is now able to offer its complete range of electronic security solutions to Chinese consumers.
